View Of A Village And Inhabitant In Africa
Émile Appay (June 2, 1876 in Saint-Just-October 7, 1935 in Vaux-sur-Seine) is a French painter whose landscapes (oils and watercolors) are in the style of vedute Émile Charles Appay was born on June 2, 1876 in Saint-Just (Eure)¹ but he spent his childhood in Paris in the 15th arrondissement. His father Charles Appay was a lithographer printer which explains his taste for art. He was a pupil of Henri Harpignies (1819-1916) and Paul Lecomte (1842-1920). He married in 1900 and had two children. He was friends with André Derain and they liked to ride bicycles together. He also liked to go fishing and he often painted waterways or fishing scenes with his friends. He was recalled at the age of 38 as a soldier in the
