illustrator and lithographer, born in Hanau on August 26, 1943. Rafflewski began drawing and painting in 1955. He trained as a graphic designer at the State Academy of Drawing in Hanau and then at the Frankfurt School of Graphic Arts, before creating his own studio as an advertising painter, decorator and poster designer. In 1960-1961, he made his first long stay in Paris, centered on Montmartre, before returning in 1963 to live permanently in France, settling successively at 50, quai de Jemmapes, in the 10th arrondissement of Paris, then in L'Hay -roses. He began practicing lithography in 1970 with Vision Nouvelle editions. Painter and lithographer of landscapes, initially influenced by tachism, his work covers Paris, the castles of the Loire, Normandy (Claude Monet's garden in Giverny, Mont-Saint-Michel), the Côte d' Azur (Cannes, Toulon), Venice or New York (following a first stay in the United States in 1975), later still Spain (Toledo, 1997), Rome, Japan and Hong Kong. He also produces advertising illustrations for the press as well as many murals in public and private places.
