Description

Armchair in gilded wood with a large, slightly enveloping racket-shaped backrest with curved lines tapering downwards. The armrests covered with fabric cuffs closing inwards lean on the backrest and rest in front on two turned consoles, sculpted with foliage. With a traditional comfortable spring seat in perfect condition, this Restoration period armchair benefits from a moiré fabric cover, recently redone. Finally, this seat rests on two turned front legs, beaded in the upper part and with foliage motifs in the strongest part. These feet are on wheels. The rear feet, on the other hand, are arched and reversed. Elegant and refined, this important armchair will seduce you with its shapes and ornamentations.
