Hard porcelain in Paris in the early 19th century In contrast to the faïence factories, porcelain factories flourished under the Empire, particularly in Paris. The period 1800-1820 can be considered as the golden age of porcelain in Paris. There were nineteen manufactures in Paris in 1800, but only seven of them were founded during the Ancien Régime: Dihl and Guérard, Houzel, Lemaire and Josse, Pouyat and Russinger, Schoelcher, Despréz and Nast.

In contrast to the period of the last twenty years of the 18th century, marked by the transition from rocaille to antique simplicity, the first thirty years of the 19th century saw the opposite, evolving from antique sobriety to rococo.

Condition report:

Very good condition, no cracks, minor wear to the gilding and painted decoration.

The chocolate cups by their format approaching a mug, can be used daily!
