

Louis Armand Bardery: Mother And Child, Statue

Description

Bardery, born in Neuilly sur Marne, studied at the Beaux-Arts in Paris with Injalbert and Vital Cornu. He exhibited from 1905 at the Salon des Artistes Français, his work is realistic on classical subjects. He stayed in North Africa after obtaining a scholarship in 1911. He also produced intimate pieces: small subjects, busts as well as monumental works. Works at the Musée d'Orsay. The work is a reconstituted stone print, the bodies of the woman and the child have received a white coating in contrast to the patina of the rest of the sculpture. Signed on the base of the mother.
