Description

The soul of 19th century Provence, the scrubland, the light and its crushing sun, the impetuous Mistral which forces the character animating this beautiful oil on panel to hold his hat, all these elements brought together by the specialist in scrubland and of the Provençal landscape in the 19th century Théophile Décanis. The work in very good condition is offered in a simple, gilded frame, which measures 39 cm by 58 cm and 33 cm by 53 cm for the panel alone. Signed lower right, it represents a character walking through the scrubland and fighting against the wind which blows the dust. A work full of light and charm. The artist is the great specialist in the landscapes of Provence. He joined the artistic movement of the School of Marseille, with Jean-Baptiste Olive (1848-1936) as master and friend. In 1900, he and
