Description

A mid 19th century beautiful and highly decorative British colonial rosewood console table supported by four profusely carved legs terminating into mythical animal faces at the table top. The top consists of a fine figured piece of rosewood and a broad band of richly carved foliage design and animal figures around the edge. The scalloped shaped apron is intricately carved and pierced with scrolling foliage with a carved mythical bird at centre. The four legs are connected through a carved and pierced x-stretcher with a nicely carved finial. Stunning quality!
