Description

Description:

Chiseled bronze, gilt, porcelain.

Each of these beautiful luminaries is constituted as an ornamental mounted object in the Regency style.

The body is in porcelain called Bleu de Four or Cobalt.

The architectural base has eight scrolled feet bearing arches and garlands of flowers. A large crown of laurels surrounds the base of the porcelain belly.

The scrolled handles and lion mascaron seize a wide frieze collar in the spirit of neo-classical architraves. We are in the beautiful quality of bronze both by the design and by the carving, as well as the very fresh and luminous gilding.
