Description

Here is a hunting dog made by Pierre-Jules Mêne. We guarantee the age and authenticity of this bronze. It has its original patina, the carving is very fine. It's nice to find a real bronze by Pierre-Jules Mêne, in fact, there are many copies of this artist. Pierre-Jules Mêne (1810-1879) is a French sculptor. Mêne opened his own foundry in 1837 to publish his works. He takes care of the casting and carving himself, with great care. Taking advantage of the animal fad, he was able to carve out a leading position for himself by exploring almost exclusively the fields of hunting and horse racing, and his commercial success was indisputable. As for the condition, note traces of verdigris, patina wear in places. Our numerous photos allow you to appreciate the quality of this work. For the condition, please detail the photos.
