Description

Rediscover the thousand-year-old tradition of Japanese Noh theater with this extraordinary Okina ? mask, a representation of the wise old man and symbol of wisdom, prosperity and longevity.

Made of ceramic and coming from Osaka, this vintage mask is enriched by an applied beard that enhances its benevolent expression and ritual meaning.

The Okina is one of the oldest and most respected masks in Noh theater, used in ceremonial performances to wish blessings and good luck. This piece is an authentic testimony to the elegance and profound symbolism of Japanese culture.
