"Charles Malle offers us his visions of a bygone world but still alive in his memory. Slowly conceived in the mind of a daydreamer, his work does not transpose the reality that surrounds us, even if most of the elements described remain easily identifiable. It abandons the figuration of appearance to deliver a deep emotion of the artist linked to a privileged period, that of childhood, of which he wants to bear witness. Expression of an ephemeral sensation, each painting is a place of evocation as if the present had no existence. Following Bonnard, in the lineage of an art halfway between tradition and the avant-garde which offers colorful and airy images of happiness, outside of time and indifferent to current events, Charles Malle, in using the common technique of easel painting, shows the tracing of his dreams » Jean PERREAU

For 20 years, several personal exhibitions in Paris, Lyon, Toulon, Deauville and abroad have made him known and a sustained rating on public sale shows the growing interest of the public. The bids obtained often far exceed the threshold of EUR10,000 for large formats depicting river or port motifs, festivals, carousels and street scenes...

Many works by this artist are already kept in collections private, particularly in France and the United States.
