Description

A pair of iron-clad armchairs, in the style of Napoleon III, 1860 with corrugated and profiled structural elements, backs, seats and handrails upholstered in fabric, supported by four cabriole legs, finished with brass profiles. The backs are slightly concave, arched with shell-shaped brass fittings in the middle, flared at the top and concave at the sides. The seats are rounded at the back and wavy at the front, also decorated with shell-shaped brass fittings, similar to those on the top of the armchair. Legs flared at the top, ending in a foot at the bottom. Condition: very good, original - visible signs of use, the padding is very good and the armrests have additional removable Velcro padding. Origin; France in the 19th century around 1860 Material: pear wood? piano black stained Dimensions: height 100 cm, length
