Description

Small Napoleon III secretary called "lady's" by its dimensions with the appearance of a weekly planner. Secretary desk of very beautiful Parisian quality inlaid with precious wood, Rio rosewood, rosewood, Cuban mahogany, with a Greek-style green net decoration on the front of the drawers and sides. This curved piece of furniture on all sides is topped with gray marble veined with red and rests on a beaded bronze net which highlights the bottom of this piece of furniture. The flap covered in beige leather covered with a golden vignette reveals an interior in Cuban mahogany with two niches, a large drawer and two small ones as well as a magnificent lock on the chiseled flap. Secretary desk richly decorated with gilded bronzes, locks in perfect working order. Completely period furniture, varnished with
