Description

Exceptional cage chandelier with twelve arms of lights in gilded bronze, decorated with cut pendants, flowers and rock crystal daggers. Louis XV period. Large cage-shaped castle chandelier in bronze and cut crystal. Illuminated by six arms of light alternating with daggers, the shaft can be threaded and ending in a large ball. The thick crystal plates, some of which are amethyst in color. Louis XV period of the mid-18th century. Electrification redone without drilling the bobeche or the cups. Our chandelier has pleasant proportions and real harmony in the arrangement of the pendants.
