Description

Imposing 19th century Imari vase with a very elegant shape and a height of 72 cm. To vary your decoration you can rotate it because it has 3 different decorations. The pretty frieze at the base testifies to the Meiji period. The grip of the lid is typically Japanese unlike the Fô dogs sometimes present on lesser pieces. I must point out that my restorer's magical fingers treated a crack that I am now completely unable to find. It's a nice thick porcelain that sounds wonderful. As an isolated piece thanks to its strong decorative power, it will adorn your interior or brilliantly complete your collection.
