Description

Louis Philippe 19th century French chest of drawers. The wood is in walnut bramble.

Walnut brambles are flamed because they have many aesthetic designs. These drawings have complex patterns with high contrast and entangled veins on a naturally dark background of varying intensities. Thus the walnut bramble wonderfully imitates a theatre curtain. This chest of drawers is equipped with four drawers, one of which is hidden in the upper belt of the cabinet.

The drawers are mounted in dovetail ensuring perfect strength. The drawers can be opened daily and can contain many sometimes heavy objects. They slide perfectly.

The back of the dresser has solid wood panels so very resistant.

The discreet entrances do not protrude from the surface. They are brass, have the shape of a heart and are posterior to the cabinet. Each lock has its own key. These keys have been added.

The dresser is perfectly stable. It rests on low feet that respect the shape of the furniture at the front and are called "pistolet" and two straight feet at the back.

The top of the dresser is a Saint Anne grey marble. The marble is richly veined and in perfect condition. The edges are rounded in the corners. The moulding is called "pair of buttocks".
