seems to emanate a deep serenity, inviting the viewer to plunge into the depths of his soul. The closed eyes suggest a state of meditation or reverie, transporting the viewer into a dreamlike and poetic universe. The signature "Lebrun" delicately affixed to the work adds an additional dimension to its mystery. Although little information is available about the artist himself, this work demonstrates his undeniable talent and exceptional mastery of marble. The title "Dream" attributed to this sculpture is particularly evocative. It evokes not only the state of sleep or reverie in which the represented figure seems to be immersed, but also the aspirations and desires which inhabit each of us. By contemplating this work, the viewer is invited to escape into their own inner world, to explore the twists and turns of their imagination and to give free rein to their deepest dreams. The time in which this work was created, around 1900, was marked by a proliferation of new ideas and revolutionary artistic movements. Art Nouveau, with its rejection of academic conventions and its exploration of nature and spirituality, resonated in the hearts and minds of the artists of the time. This Carrara marble bust perfectly embodies the innovative and visionary spirit of this pivotal period in art history. In conclusion, the Carrara marble bust "Dream" in Art Nouveau style, signed Lebrun, is much more than a simple sculpture. It is an invitation to contemplation, introspection and daydreaming. Through its delicate features and serene expression, this timeless work continues to fascinate and inspire, testifying to the eternal power of art to transcend the boundaries of time and space.
