Description

ANTHROPOMORPHE STATUETTE depicted with bowed legs on feet forming a trapezoidal base characteristic of the culture.

Her circular arms rest her hands on her waist, and the double neck indicates that this is probably a twin couple with one head.

His stylised face is punctuated by two small protuberances on the sides, referring to his ears or short plaits.

It probably represents an ancestor.

Kulango culture, Ivory Coast and Ghana, circa 1900
