

19th Century Naive Painting - Animated Village Scene

Description

Naïve Painting from 1873 Signed Godefroy - Lively Village Scene Discover this 19th-century naïve oil on canvas, signed by the artist Godefroy in 1873, which depicts a lively village scene. This captivating work illustrates a lively rural setting, where several characters move through a landscape dominated by two emblematic buildings, one bearing the inscriptions "Mairie" and "École". The inhabitants, whether on foot, on horseback or in carts, animate this balanced composition. A central road guides the eye towards the background, where classical architectural elements and refined details, such as animals and vegetation, enrich the scene. The naïve style of this work is characterized by simplified perspectives and a bright color palette. The soft clouds contrast harmoniously with the
