Description

This oil on panel by Coran d'Ys depicts a church in Brittany with a river in the foreground.

Victorien Harel known as Coran d'Ys (1877-1954) painted Breton landscapes, most often in the form of gouaches and watercolors with fine lines and a Japanese style. Coran d'Ys was interested in the seabed and was part of the realist movement that began in painting in 1930. In 1935, the French Navy commissioned wall panels from him for the destroyers Le Fantasque and Le Chacal. The work is of high quality, particularly in the reflections. Please note that this work is sold unrestored and uncleaned, we note small traces of wear and rubbing. However, it remains in a good state of conservation. Our photos allow you to appreciate the quality of the object. For the condition, please examine the
