Description

Pair of magnificent Candelabra attributed to Claude Galle (1759 - 1815): These sumptuous gilt bronze candelabra, attributed to master bronzier Claude Galle, embody the elegance and refinement of the Empire style. Each candelabra is adorned with a classically draped female figure, supporting a structure of volutes and vegetal ornaments, culminating in several delicately sculpted arms to hold candles. The base, finely decorated with floral and geometric motifs, testifies to the attention to detail and exceptional know-how of Claude Galle, one of the greatest bronziers of the Napoleonic period. His mastery of technique and his aesthetic sense make this a rare piece, ideal for collectors and art lovers of the early 19th century. Dimensions: o Height: 63cm o Width: 21 cm o Depth: 10 cm
