

Statue For A Dentist....

Description

Jokes aside, it is a terracotta statue covered with a gray engobe from Guatemala. The original dating from 200 BC is in a museum somewhere in these distant lands and I learned things about it: Jalisco Ameca ezatian style.... These funerary statuettes were in the image of all the participants who could be useful to the life of the deceased in the afterlife.... So a dentist had to be at the bedside of the deceased.... Kind attention, just in case....
