Description

Solid elm table evoking a subtle Asian influence in the design of its base. The rectangular and fairly wide top allows 4 people to be comfortably seated. The base, which particularly attracts attention, is distinguished by its harmonious lines and its worked design. The four legs, slightly curved outwards, recall the elegant shapes of traditional Asian aesthetics. This curvature brings a feeling of lightness while ensuring a solid and stable base. The legs are connected by a system of wooden crosspieces forming an "X" under the table, which reinforces its stability while adding a decorative touch. The visible and discreet wooden dowel joints highlight the artisanal aspect of the table, inspired by traditional carpentry techniques. The finish, in a warm and natural shade between honey and light oak, highlights the authentic
