halberd-shaped pendants draws a large stylized flower in bloom, surrounded by many other flowers covering the field.

The border composed of varied patterns, palmettes and alternating branches is inspired by ancient models from Herat.

This entire piece is in perfect condition, the pile is clean, the edges are impeccable as well as the short fringes.

The general condition is very good, there is no reduction in pile, the fine kerk wool used is of the highest quality and the colours are perfect.

The edges and fringes are in superb condition.

The colours are fresh without loss of colour and not faded. Kashan (Kachan, Keshan): a large city in central Iran. At the time of the Persian Renaissance, Kashan was the centre of carpet production of legendary splendour. Finely woven carpets of great richness of composition were knotted by the royal factory of Shah Abbas.

They have become the centrepieces of museums and private collections.

Craftsmanship was interrupted in Kashan between the invasion of the Afghans (1722) and the end of the 19th century.

The revival of carpet production began with carpets distinguished by the superior quality of the wool giving an extremely velvety appearance.

These examples are called Kashan Motashemi, named after the most famous master weaver of the late 19th century.

The decorations are varied and offer a meticulous craftsmanship: hunting scenes, subjects with figures inspired by Persian mythology, birds in a plant decor, trees of life.

Thanks to the superior quality of the wool, their dense knotting, the beauty of their natural colors and their fine designs, the Kashan took their place among the best Persian carpets.

This carpet has been professionally and ecologically cleaned.
