Description

Fan celebrating "Old Paris" illustrated by Albert Robida for the famous Duvelleroy fan house at the 1900 World's Fair in Paris

Albert Robida (1848 - 1926) French illustrator, created for the 1900 World's Fair a reconstruction of a district of "Old Paris", downstream from the Pont de l'Alma (reconstruction which was destroyed after the exhibition)

This fan was sold at the exhibition venue.

Fan titled "Le Mignon", the leaf in fabric printed in colors, the frame in cream lacquered wood, engraved with gold floral motifs.

It represents a minstrel playing the lute for two ladies, with the "Old Paris" architecture in the background.
