NUREMBERG, Mid-17th century.

These rare plates are most often found in a very poor state of conservation.

The one presented here offers an exceptional finesse of casting and freshness as well as a perfectly legible mark.

Generally speaking, the dating of these plates is very risky when they only have the countermark of the creator of the mold because in this case we cannot affirm that the piece is contemporary with the creation of the model. Only the presence of the founder's mark provides this certainty.

These relief decorations of the "Edel Zinn" group were not chiseled as we often read or hear but came "raw cast". This implied two conditions: a mold of impeccable quality and a perfect mastery of the casting techniques.
