Description

This work by André Postaire subtly captures the picturesque charm of the port of Barfleur, in Normandy. Painted in a palette of soft and nuanced tones, the painting depicts the coastline at low tide, where boats rest on a damp ground with changing reflections. The church sits majestically at the center of the composition, surrounded by the traditional houses of the village. The sky, loaded with shades of gray and blue, gives a peaceful and timeless atmosphere to this maritime scene. Postaire, faithful to his impressionist style and sensitive to coastal landscapes, subtly translates the light and the singular atmosphere of this historic port. An ideal piece for lovers of regional art and seascapes, bringing a touch of authenticity and serenity to any interior.
