which rotates the cylinder by counterweight, lifting it up.

Entirely veneered with the exotic essences of bois de rose and bois de violette, distinguished by beautiful veins, arranged like a diamond on the cylinder. The refinement of the shape and the use of the precious essences constitute an important furnishing, destined to embellish a prestigious environment. The veneer laid out to the art and the balance of the lines give great elegance to our furniture, a reflection of the sensitivity, taste and technical virtuosity of a skilled Parisian cabinetmaker of the mid-eighteenth century

Finely chiseled and gilded bronze decorations.

Similar examples for the structure and type of rhomboid inlays can be seen in the furnishings made by the Parisian cabinetmaker Jacques-Laurent COSSON, whose works were a source of inspiration for other artists such as Léonard Boudin, François Reizell and Guillaume Cordié.

The general conditions are perfect, authentic in every component.
