Description

Elegant walnut nightstand dating from the Early 20th century, designed in the Louis XVI style. This refined piece stands on four turned legs, typical of the period, and features a beautiful, warm patina that highlights the quality of the walnut wood. Its red marble top, veined with white, adds a touch of sophistication and durability.

The nightstand has a single door and a drawer, providing practical storage space. The interior retains its original metal lining, a distinctive feature of antique nightstands, originally designed to accommodate a chamber pot. This piece seamlessly combines aesthetics and functionality, once used to keep essential items within easy reach during the night.
