Description

The painting is made in a classical style, reminiscent of 19th century portraits. The gilded frame gives a touch of elegance and reinforces the classical character of the painting. The play of light and shadow is subtle, with soft lighting that highlights the face and creates a realistic effect. The expression of the young man is serious, but with a certain softness in the features.

Monogrammed WB The clear mark that can be seen on the back of the painting is not a restoration but a paper that was glued
