

Wood-pearl-gold-diamond Pen Holder

450 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Solid wood

Description

This pen holder is a true object of curiosity or collection from the Art Nouveau period. The body is made of very light wood, probably carved cork, dotted with 10 pretty little pearls, probably fine. The place where the nib is placed is made of 18K yellow gold on 4.3cm; it is engraved with the inscription: MWR to LGA the other end the wood is covered with 18K gold finely chiseled with the first name "Lilly" in diamonds. This unique object which combines raw material and preciousness is spectacular and very interesting. We do not know if the person who intended it for Lilly created it himself or ordered it as a gift, but it is a captivating object. L: 28cm PB: 16g. Good condition.
