Description

Beautiful 17th-century bronze head of Emperor Trajan, executed in a historicist style. The head features a bronze construction with ivory-inlaid eyes. In the 17th century, it was common for European courts to collect Roman-style sculptures, and this piece was likely created at that time to satisfy the demand of renowned collectors. The sculpture has a beautiful aged patina and a large size, emphasizing its striking presence. Dimensions: 40 × 28 × 30 cm.

Provenance: Spanish private collection. Trajan: Marcus Ulpius Trajanus (Italica, September 18, 53 - Selinunte, c. August 11, 117) was a Roman emperor from 98 to 117 AD.
