Description

Elegant glass table designed by renowned American designer Charles Hollis Jones for the Belgian manufacturer Belgo Chrom in the 1970s. This exceptional piece stands out for its modern and sophisticated design, reminiscent of the Hollywood Regency style. The table features an oval beveled glass top, resting on a brass base and clear Lucite Plexiglas legs, creating an effect of lightness and transparency. The high-quality materials and impeccable finish are a testament to the craftsmanship of Belgo Chrom and the visionary talent of Charles Hollis Jones. This table is in excellent vintage condition and would make a valuable addition to any lover of 1970s design and furniture. Charles Hollis Jones, born in 1945, is an American artist and furniture designer. He is best known for his innovative use of acrylic and Lucite in his designs. Nicknamed "Mr. Lucite," Jones began his career at a young age, founding CHJ Designs at the age of sixteen and moving to Los Angeles in 1963. His works quickly gained popularity, attracting the attention of celebrities such as Frank Sinatra, Lucille Ball, and Johnny Carson, who commissioned pieces for their homes. Charles Hollis Jones's designs range from Lucite and brass tables and chairs to more unusual pieces like Tibetan fur chair frames. His work has been exhibited in several museums, including the Norton Simon Museum in Pasadena, California. He currently lives in Los Angeles. * Period: 1970 Excellent Vintage condition.
