Description

Sculptural elegance and Art Deco refinement meet in this important "Jet d'Eau" chandelier by Sabino, a true masterpiece of early 20th century glass art. Composed of multiple rows of molded-pressed white glass slabs, this light fixture plays on alternating satin and glossy finishes, magnifying a sumptuous decor of stylized foliage. Its cascading design, inspired by the movement of gushing water, gives it a majestic presence and a light diffusion of rare softness. The whole rests on a subtly crafted silver-plated metal structure, which reinforces its airy and sophisticated look. Period: Circa 1927
Materials: Molded-pressed satin and glossy glass, silver-plated metal structure
Dimensions: Height 74 cm
Signature: Sabino
