Description

Beginning of the XXth century, very beautiful and unusual ceramic sculpture depicting an ibex made in the spirit of Iranian aquamaniles from the 12th and 13th centuries. Perhaps a European work with a choice of colors in the sensitivity of the creations of Alexandre Bigot or Pierre-Adrien Dalpayrat for example. The ibex's mouth and eyes are surrounded by manganese. The set is in good condition, no shock or crack (even on the horns), except for slight wear and small original chips on the base of the legs which correspond to the outlet of the oven from the room. Consistent weight due to the beautiful density. We take special care in our packaging by using optimum protection. The shipment is made with insurance included.
