Description

Sideboard in light Mahogany wood, made in France in the second half of the 1800s.

The bottom three doors have locks and keys and give access to two large rooms divided by a shelf.

In the two-door part the shelf is in the center, while it is positioned a little higher in the single leaf part,

so as to obtain a compartment of greater height probably for storing bottles.

Turned feet and solid mahogany panels with grain to draw the front of the sideboard The three drawers at the top still retain the original knob.

Restored and polished with shellac with wax finish
