Description

Embroidery in polichrome silk threads on a red background of wild silk, representing a scene animated by several characters. The hanging is attached to a cardboard which keeps it stretched inside a frame protected by a glass. We have removed the frame and the glass to check the state of conservation of the fabric which is in good condition, given the dating, with really minimal defects (do not hesitate to contact us for more detailed photos) .

The shipment of the object will be made by separating the embroidery from the frame with glass, so as to avoid damage to the fabric in the event of breakage to the glass. The reassembly in the frame will therefore be the responsibility of the acquirer.
