Description

Important pair of original gilded wood wall consoles, from the end of the 18th century, the beginning of the 19th century. They are in their own juice, lack of wood on the plate in a corner of one of the consoles, the point at the bottom of one of the consoles is changed and gilding skipping. For people who like faded atmospheres and should not be touched, they are beautiful like that and they have the advantage of being in pairs and of large sizes
