Description

The small piece of furniture that we present is a master piece of Dutch origin. It is tomb-shaped for the convenient part (with inlays of inlaid patterns). the part above the commonde is a gendarme hat display case with two small paned doors as well as on the sides. The interior of the doors is painted, the shelves and the bottoms of the drawers as well as the interior sides of the chest of drawers are lined with fabrics ... This unmistakably 18th century masterpiece. This kind of work was for the most part the end of a young cabinetmaker's apprenticeship. Today we would call it a CAP This piece of furniture is sold in its own juice. He deserves a little refreshment.
