Description

Important bronze proof representing a Muse playing the flute , "Muse of the woods" by Édouard Drouot .

Allegorical subject of a young woman playing the Aulos , she symbolizes "Euterpe" which in Greek mythology means " who knows how to please ", she was the muse who presided over the music and had invented the Aulos (double flute) .

With this representation of a young girl crowned with flowers and playing this double flute , E. Drouot wanted to express how much the arts have charm for those who cultivate them .

Signature of the sculptor "E.Drouot" on the naturalistic oval terrace , richly chiselled .

Bronze titled " Muse of the woods by Drouot " .

Old edition cast iron , circa 1900 .

Sculpture from the 19th century .
